Dear Pastors, Churches, and Friends,

October 2010

Psalm 119:2 says, "Blessed are they that keep his testimonies, and that seek him with the whole heart." The past few months we have been dealing with the response people have toward the Word of God. Some choose to obey, while others choose to disobey. God has promised to bless those who hear and do His will. We get excited when people choose to follow the Word of God and are eager to learn more. However, when people choose to reject the light they are given from God's Word, our hearts are saddened by their disobedience.

I have received two e-mails in the past few days from people who were doubting their salvation, but when we corresponded with them, showing them the Word of God they responded positively and have full confidence in Christ and His complete work on the cross. Through our websites we have corresponded with dozens of people just like this. They want something from God's Word to bring peace into their lives.

Brazil is in desperate need of the truth. Religion is everywhere! Yet, though there is much religion, few people are following the Word of God. On the 31st of October the people of Brazil voted in a socialist president, Dilma. She has publicly made statements that show her disbelief in Jesus as the Son of God. She has also made many statements that show she intends to restrict our religious liberties in this country. Even though we are disappointed in the results of the elections, we can be certain that God is in control. Romans 13 shows us that God sets up the powers in this world.

The church downtown São Paulo that we have been working with has been thrilled at our presence over the past two months. The people have been eager to receive the Word of God as we preach. However, though the people want to be independent Baptist, the pastor, having recovered more quickly than expected, has made a decision to remain under the convention. Because of our convictions, we have decided to step away and allow them to work this out on their own. We cannot overstep the pastor and do not wish to undermine his leadership.

On November 11, I will be travelling to the northwest part of Brazil to preach a mission conference, as mentioned in my previous letter. Please pray that the Word of God would work in the hearts of the people and they would decide to follow and obey the clear teaching and preaching of God's Word.

We have made a video of my Amazon trip in August. This video will be available for download through www.BraziltotheUttermost.com until the end of the year. Please take the time to watch it and see what God did during that trip. The download is high quality and could be easily used in your church.
